See what love the Father has bestowed on us that we may be called children of God. Yet so we are.

The reason the world does not know us is that it did not know him. Beloved, we are God's children now; what we will be has not yet been revealed. What we do know is this: when it is revealed, we shall be like him, for we shall see him as he is.

PRACTICING CATHOLIC - RECOGNIZE GOD IN YOUR ORDINARY MOMENTS (LPI)

By Colleen Jurkiewicz Dorman

The Good Shepherd and the Wolf

I remember very clearly the first movie I watched during my pregnancy with my eldest child. In this film, there is a scene where a young boy is kidnapped and shoved into the back of a van guarded by vicious dogs. His mother persists in trying to free him, even as the dogs snap at her. Their bared teeth and full-throated snarls don't slow her efforts in the slightest.

It wasn't a great movie or even a particularly great scene, but I'll never forget this scene. I'll never forget those dogs.

I had just learned that I was a mother a few days ago. The life growing deep within seemed to me as frail as a whispered secret, but I loved it powerfully. I worried constantly if the baby was safe and healthy. I agonized over signs — real or imagined — that could tell me if the poppyseed-sized child was thriving or failing.

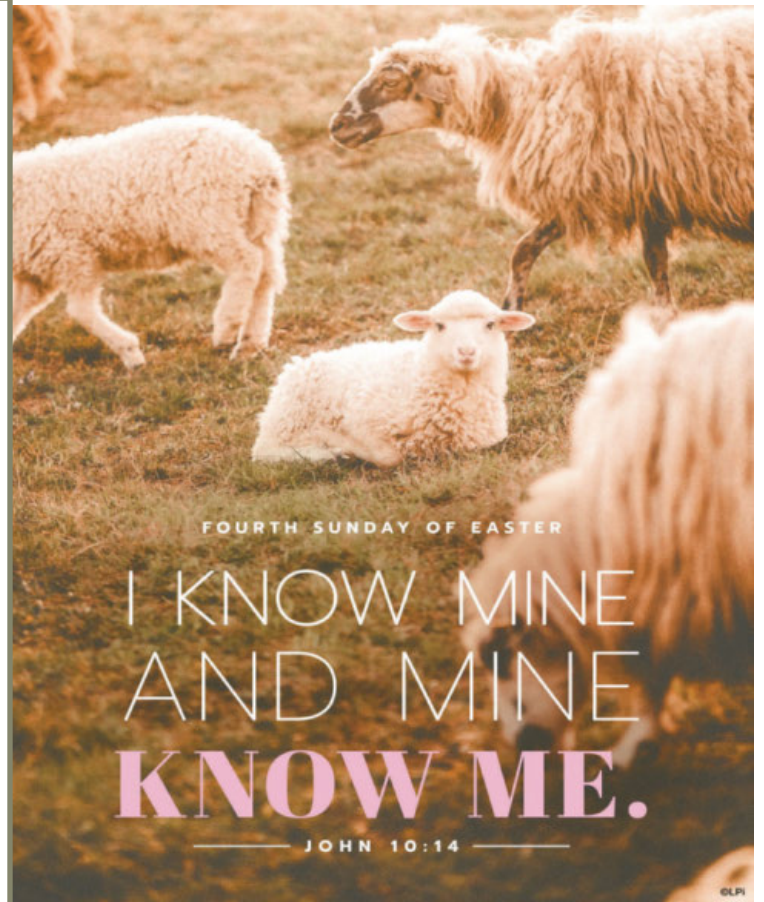

I understood, for the first time in my life, why a woman would charge a pack of attack dogs without hesitation — not because she should, but because she has to.

She could choose not to fight, certainly. She could walk away. But why would she? A future without her son is so much more painful than any physical wound. She may fear for her life, but she fears a life without her child so much more.

The Good Shepherd discourse reveals to us the motivation behind God's actions throughout all of salvation history. From Adam to Noah to Abraham, all the way down to the time of the Messiah and beyond, He keeps trying to get us back. He keeps braving the attack dogs, time after time. He never stops. He never grows weary. And it baffles us: what's in it for Him? we wonder, because we are quicker to give up on ourselves than He is. Why does He keep trying?

He could choose not to fight, sure. But why would He? He doesn't want a future without us.

"I will lay down my life for the sheep." — John 10:11

*M*y Dear Friends in Christ,
This weekend is Good Shepherd Sunday. It is a time to remember Jesus, the Good Shepherd of our parish and our lives. Today, let us remember those who have “shepherded” us to union with Christ — a priest who may have guided us, a parent, a close friend. The blessing is that we are all a special part of His flock. The Lord wants to hold us in “jubilation” because of our union with Him. May the Good Shepherd, Jesus, continue to foster in you a life of grace and love. God Bless and keep you,

Fr. Pina

Saint of the Week!

Question:

What is unique or different about the way Catholics read and are exposed to the Bible?

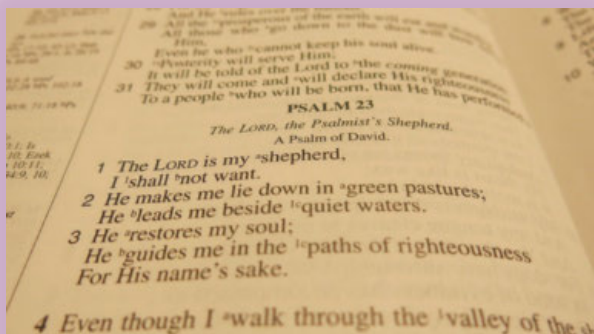

Answer:

Catholics are exposed to Scripture primarily through the Sunday readings from a book known as the Lectionary. The Lectionary is a book of selected passages from the Bible set in the context of a liturgical season, such as Advent, Lent, or ordinary time. There are four readings assigned to any Sunday: the first reading (usually from the Old Testament), the responsorial psalm, the second reading (usually from a New Testament letter), and the Gospel reading.

These readings together give them a new context. The selected readings relate to one another in a unique manner that is not present in the Bible text itself. In close proximity to each other, these readings now have the opportunity to converse with each other in a way that would have not been possible before. A homilist pays attention to all four readings, preparing a reflection that speaks of this conversation among the readings, enabling us to zero in on what this unique combination of God's word has to say to us this particular Sunday.

Next time you attend Sunday liturgy, try reading the Scripture ahead of time and see how this new relationship among the readings addresses and challenges you to be a better Christian here and now.

And speaking of the Gospels, this week we celebrate the feast day of St. Mark the Evangelist (April 25th). We have a lot to thank him for, most notably the writing of his Gospel. Mark was a disciple of the Way after Jesus resurrected, and a follower of St. Peter and St. Paul. What is known as one of the three Synoptic Gospels (meaning "seen together"), Mark's is the shortest, yet most detailed, especially in his passion narrative which is the longest of all four gospels. Mark was also the first Gospel written. The other Synoptic Gospels, Matthew and Luke, based their Gospels off of Mark's work. Each Gospel writer has a symbol associated with him and Mark's is a lion because of how his Gospel begins with the preaching of John the Baptist, a voice crying out in strength and truth. The truth of Jesus' teachings are echoed succinctly throughout his Gospel. Writing to a mostly Gentile audience under Roman persecution (Gentiles are anyone outside of Judaism and belief in the One God), Mark's whole theme centers around the truth of Christ's Kingdom established, His victory over death. That fully God, he was fully human and knew of suffering, and he endured the greatest suffering. Yet it became a suffering redeemed. Through this message his encouragement lies in salvation for all who believe in the truth stronger and more powerful than the roar of the fiercest beast life's road often brings. St. Mark, pray for us and the church throughout the world, that we remain steadfast in the faith you first wrote to life from God's heart to paper. ~Sara
